Question 11:

SIEPA:

Rasky Baerlein Strategic Communications has provided strategic communication counsel in support of our goal of generating foreign direct investment from U.S. based companies in Serbia on behalf of our client, the Serbian Investment and Export Promotion Agency (SIEPA). During this six month period, we have facilitated two trips of staff from SIEPA and officials from the Serbian government to Washington D.C. and Boston, MA. These trips included facilitating meetings with elected officials, interviews with media and meetings and interactions with business leaders in order to educate them on the investment opportunities available in Serbia. Our work has also included facilitating a lecture by Deputy Prime Minister Dinkic at Harvard University. In addition, we continue to reach out to media to make Serbian government officials and members of SIEPA available for media interviews on selected topics. We also provide daily news monitoring reports to capture all print and internet coverage of Serbia in the U.S. media market.

Socialist Party of Albania

Rasky Baerlein Strategic Communications provided government relations services to the Socialist Party of Albania in support of our goal of drawing attention to the political situation in Albania. During this six month period, we briefed Congressional staff and Administration officials on the political situation in Albania and the efforts of the Socialist Party of Albania to resolve the political crisis with the Government of Albania. In addition, we continue to reach out to the media to make members of the Socialist Party of Albania available for media interviews on selected topics.

His Excellency Dr. Sali Berisha
Prime Minister
Republic of Albania

Dear Prime Minister,

As a Member of the United States Congress, I am writing to express my growing concern over recent political developments in Albania.

Since emerging from its authoritarian past, Albania has made great strides in improving its democracy and integrating itself into Europe. Your historic ascension to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last year and the possibility of joining the European Union are testament to the progress Albania has made. However, as pending intelligence service legislation and the political impasse following last year's parliamentary election demonstrate, Albania needs to continue consolidating its democratic institutions and strengthening its rule of law.

It is my understanding that a recent delegation from the Council of Europe concluded that a solution to the political crisis could be based on the following principles, all of which would be within the constitutional framework of Albania:

- The creation of a parliamentary committee of inquiry into the June 2009 elections, chaired by a representative of the opposition and in which the opposition will have an effective majority;
- The committee of inquiry would prepare amendments to the electoral code in line with recommendations of the international observation mission and of Resolution 1709; and
- The opposition would be granted a fair share of the chairmanships of the parliamentary committees.
- I urge you to open the disputed ballot boxes as part of this proposed parliamentary inquiry. This action is in line with a strong commitment to a free and fair democratic process and would provide a clear assessment for improving the electoral system in the future.

I firmly believe that credible elections and strong democratic institutions in Albania will benefit the Albanian people, an enhanced U.S.-Albania relationship and Albania's stature in NATO and all of Europe. It is important that your government act swiftly to resolve these issues in order to return its focus to furthering its integration into the Euro-Atlantic community.

Sincerely,
